Applications must include:

- An unofficial transcript of all coursework at GWU (GWeb/DegreeMap copy is fine)
- A 1-2 page (max) letter of application. Include a brief discussion of your senior research project and its impact, your contributions to the Organizational Sciences Program, and how the major contributed to your educational and professional development.
- A 1-page (max) letter of endorsement from an Organizational Sciences Program faculty member. The letter should address how the student has demonstrated Organizational Sciences principles in class, research, and/or activities.
- One letter of recommendation from a GWU faculty member, not in the Organizational Sciences Program, addressing the student's academic excellence.

Joseph Zeidner founded the Administrative Sciences (now Organizational Sciences) Program at The George Washington University and also served as the Technical Director of the U.S. Army Research Institute. The Zeidner Prize was created by the Organizational Sciences faculty in honor of Professor Zeidner and to recognize academic excellence among Organizational Sciences majors. The prize includes a $250 award and winners will be recognized in the University Commencement Program and on a plaque in the Department's offices.

Materials must be submitted via email, all at the same time, to Professor David Costanza (dcostanz@gwu.edu) no later than Friday, February 19, 2021 at 5 p.m.

Late applications will not be accepted.
